RAIL PEACE HINGES ON CONFERENCE OF BELLIGERANTS TODAY AT NEW YORK; HARDING WILL KEEP HANDS OFF STRIKE

Brotherhood Chiefs Will Act For The Striking Shopmen In Latest Effort To Bring About Harmony On Railways Of Nation.

NEW YORK, August 17.—Railroad peace today hinged on the conference between union leaders and rail executives here. The Big Four, headed by Warren S. Stone, and a committee of executives headed by T. DeWitt Cuyer, were ready to confer this afternoon in an effort to end the strike of 400,000 shopmen.

The Brotherhood leaders will go into the conference as agents for the shopmen and will go prepared to offer a new plan for settlement. Chiefs of sixteen other striking and non-striking unions were also assembled, including Bert. M. Jewell, chief of the railroad department of the American Federation of Labor.

Leaders of the opposing sides were optimistic that a settlement of the long drawn-out rail tie-up would come out of the conference. President Stone announced that other officials would be within call in case their counsel were needed during the negotiations.

Washington, D. C., August 17.—Fear of embarrassing the peace discussions between the railroad executives and the heads of the Big Four Brotherhoods in New York may cause President Harding to postpone his scheduled appearance before Congress with his summary of the rail and coal strikes. Mr. Harding stated on Tuesday that he would place the critical industrial situation before Congress within forty-eight hours. The time limit expires today. The President is not optimistic for a settlement but he hopes that a basis for negotiations may be worked out. There was no official word from the White House as to when the President would appear before Congress to deliver his message.

This afternoon the coal operators of District No. 2 will meet here to decide on a course of action on the wage scale made at Cleveland. The meeting will not adjourn in time for today's paper, which is being published a little early owing to the Thursday afternoon holiday. Full proceedings of the day's developments will be found in tomorrow's Progress.

STRIKE MAY CAUSE SHIFT OF TRADE IN CONNELSVILLE COKE

By JOHN NIMICK
(United Press Staff Correspondent.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 17.—(United Press.)—The rich Connellsville coal and coke region may never again hold the same place in relation to steel industry in the Pittsburgh district.

Scores of mines along the Monongahela river may never be reopened, it is predicted, following important discoveries by independent steel manufacturers, who were forced to look elsewhere for their coking coal on account of the miners strike in the Connellsville field.

Heretofore, coal and coke from Monongahela river mines were considered indispensable to steel making. Following certain discoveries, however, steel men say they only can use about 50 per cent of the normal output in the Connellsville district.

One of the outstanding developments in the steel industry as a direct result of the coal strike, is the attention given to production of by product coke, and the knowledge that steel plants can use coal from other than the Connellsville region. Besides, it was pointed out, the by-product ovens at the mills have the advantage over beehive ovens at the mines in quantity and quality of coke produced.

Independent steel makers found that by mixing coal from the west Virginian field with equal quantities of Connellsville or Monongahela river coal, they produced a higher grade coke and a greater yield per ton.

"A mixture of 40 per cent Pocahontas (West Virginia coal) with 60 per cent Connellsville coal is being used at by-product plants with good results, in some cases increasing the output of a blast furnace from 20 to 25 per cent." A leading independent steel manufacturer said:

"Should this trend to use low volatile coal continue, it means that mines which produce coal for coking purposes in Western Pennsylvania face a reduced demand of 40 to 50 per cent below their pre-strike output."

PHILADELPHIA AUTO THIEF GETS LONGEST SENTENCE IN YEARS

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 16.—One of the stiffest sentences for automobile theft handed down in quarter sessions court in years was given today by Judge McDevitt to Paul Pinelly, convicted on four indictments.

The prisoner was sentenced to not less than 12 years and 8 months and not more than 14 years in the Eastern penitentiary.

Cable news service between Great Britain and the United States was thrown into a chaotic state Tuesday when two cable stations, one at Waterville and the other at Valentia Ireland, were seized by the Irish irregular forces. Of the thirteen cables linking this country with England, but three were in operation and these were jammed with a rush of business of commercial and press matter. Most of the service of the United Press and the International News Service on that day was forwarded at the regular commercial rate. The Associated Press received its foreign news matter for the most part at press rates and, while it was somewhat delayed, a good amount of matter was dispatched.

Wireless Used

The radio supplemented the cable for the International News Service. This organization has utilized the wireless for a lengthy period and its value as a part of the newsgathering and distributing service was proven in the emergency. Because of the limited amount of cable news the volume received by wireless was greater than upon ordinary occasions.

The first day of the hampered service was perhaps the worst ever experienced by newsgathering agencies in recent years. Delays in regular press messages were from ten minutes to twelve hours. The Associated Press reported to The Fourth Estate that one of their stories was twelve hours late arriving at its destination. This was the most serious delay. Others ranged from ten minutes to an hour.

On Wednesday the service by cable was better, the delays not so long and the amount of news received was of something like normal volume. The more important news events of the day were reported fully and came in good time. The stories of Lloyd George's conference and of Irish matters were received in New York in detail and speedily.

Dispatches on Wednesday were relayed from London to Brest and thence to New York via Coney Island.

Press Rates

The ordinary press cable rate is seven cents a word while the commercial rate is twenty-five cents. Frequently when news of more than ordinary interest breaks in the foreign fields it is necessary to dispatch it at full rate to insure greater speed in delivery and at times press associations pay triple rates to secure results. It is readily seen that the full rate service of the cable companies in this week's emergency was not a move to take advantage of the situation.

FIREMEN WILL BE CLEARFIELD GUESTS AT NEXT CONVENTION

The 1923 convention of the Central District Volunteer Firemen's convention will be held at Clearfield. This was decided upon at yesterday's convation in DuBois.

Clearfield was the only town to ask for next year's convention and the selection was unanimous. M. M. Overly, delegate representing our department, placed Clearfield in nomination.

Officers elected for the ensuing year just before the convention adjourned at 4 o'clock this afternoon, are as follows:

President—Alex Kreher, Clearfield.

First Vice President—Joseph Maier, DuBois.

Second Vice President — James Trimble, Patton.

Secretary—John E. Johnson, DuBois.

Treasurer—H. B. Scott, Philipsburg.

Delegate to State Convention—John Hodge, DuBois.

Alternate Delegate to State Convention—Iser Damus, DuBois.

The president, second vice president and treasurer were elected without opposition.

34 Companies Represented.

Sixty-eight delegates and alternates, representing 34 of the 49 companies, were in attendance at the Avenue Theater when President Fred Weston called the thirtieth annual convention of the Central Pennsyvania Volunteer Firemen's Association to order.

"ON TO DUBOIS" THE BATTLE CRY OF FIRE LADDIES AND BAND

The Clearfield Fire Department to the number of a couple of hundred, accompanied by the American Legion Band and several hundred other Clearfielders left Clearfield on a special train over the B. R. & P. road for the annual District Firemen's Convention at DuBois.

The band was in fine shape and should easily cop the band prize, but ordinarily any outfit from Clearfield has as much chance to get a prize at DuBois as that rich man has to march through the eye of a shoemaker's needle.

NOTED NEWSPAPER MAN VISITING FRIENDS HERE

Odell Hauser, the Philadelphia Public Ledger's noted "political expert," is a Clearfield visitor this week, being the guest of Frank W. Short, executive clerk of Philadelphia city council, who is spending his vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Short, at their home on Market street.

CLEARFIELD-CURWENSVILLE COUNTRY CLUB TRANSFORMED INTO BEAUTY SPOT IS MECCA OF HUNDREDS ON WEEK-ENDS

Club House Remodeled And Doubled In Size. Gold Course In Excellent Shape. Week-End Dinners And Dances Regular Feature Popular With The Club Members.

It is said that nature cannot be beautified, but a combination of the beauties of nature, landscape engineering and architectural design has brought forth a result at the Clearfield-Curwensville Country Club far beyond the fondest expectations of the directors of the Club who about a year ago started to improve the forty acre estate on which the old club house was located.

The Clearfield-Curwensville Country Club is situated about midway between Clearfield and Curwensville on the Lakes-to-the-Sea Highway, it being a part of the old Ai F. Boynton farm on the flat above the road. So popular had this recreation spot become in the last few years that their club house was entirely too small to accommodate the large crowds coming there to enjoy golf, tennis and other sports, to say nothing of the wonderful club dinners and dances which are a regular feature on Saturday evenings.

The club house is reached by a picturesque winding automobile road one half mile in length from the highway and on approaching the top of the hill the newly enlarged club house, nestled in a grove of native maples, greets the eye, as do also the well groomed tennis courts and perfectly turfed golf course.

Everything for the convenience and comfort of members and their guests is at hand under the new arrangements. A caretaker and chef, also a golf instructor, are on the grounds at all times. The club house has been doubled in size and is completely outfitted with heat, electric lighting, running hot and cold water, ladies dressing rooms and two separate sets of shower baths. The best of spring spring water is provided by means of an electrical pump which raises the water from an elegant spring located just back of the club house.

The architectural design of the club house proper is beautiful. A large open porch spread across the entire front of the building facing the golf course and base ball diamond. The center of the club house is utilized as a dining room which will seat over one hundred diners. To the left of the main dining room is a party or luncheon room with individual tables for twenty-eight diners. To the right of the dining room is a large, commodious lounging room with piano and victrola, also a gentlemens' card room. Between the front porch and the inside rooms there are handsome sun parlors extending all the way around the one side of the club house.

To the rear of the dining room are the kitchens where every device known to modern domestic science has been installed. On the second floor there are living quarters for the keeper, the golf instructor and the chef.

The golf course is no doubt the most popular phase of the Clearfield-Curwensville Country Club life. It is a regulation 2900 yard, 9 hole course and is kept in the pink of condition by the aid of a Ford tractor attached to a lawn mowing machine.

A dinner dance is given every Saturday evening under the direction of the Club directors and since the new

TO MAKE BETTER WIVES

New University Department Has Catechism For Brides To Answer Before The Plunge

By LUCILE F. SAUNDERS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, August 16.—(United Press)—Qualifications for brides have taken a change for the better.

The old fashioned girl who thought she could get past the gates of matrimony with a hand embroidered trousseau and a superficial knowledge of chafing dish recipes will find that she has lost her claim to a steady matrimonial job.

This is Miss Florence A. Otis' view of the new generation of girls. And Miss Otis ought to know, for she has just recently been made head of the new department in theschool for women at the University of Cincinnati and is to begin spreading her particular brand of gospel through the class rooms of that municipal educational enterprise within a few days.

"Home making is becoming a profession," Miss Otis said, as she sat up in her apartment near Columbia university making plans for the coming year. "The modern girl doesn't like to be tied down. She wants independence. If she studies home making thoroughly enough, she is always prepared to take care of herself in cases of emergency.

"Happier husbands should go hand in hand with housekeeping, that is on a scientific basis. The modern man is going to have little cause for complaint, because we intend to give his future bride a five years professional course in the complicated art of being a wife."

Here is the imposing catechism Miss Otis says the college graduate bride should be able to answer in the affirmative before she steps to the altar:

"Do you know all about good food habits?

"Do you know the fundamentals of general hygiene?

"Can you design your home and its furnishings tastefully?

"Can you organize your time efficiently?

"Can you spend your household allowance for food and clothing intelligently?

"If you are going to have hired help, can you manage them?

"Do you understand the psychology of children, what books they should read and what should be their entertainment?

"If you know all these things are you going to bury yourself in efficiency and business management to such an extent that you forget to be attractive to your husband?"

"Home economics no longer means mere cooking and sewing," Miss Otis explained. "The more practical and well organized the home, the more it appeals to the girl. By opening up new spheres of home-making, we do not mean to minimize the importance of the home. We will teach the young wife how to be more economical and bring her babies up better and show her what is needed for a sound, healthy body. There should be fewer dyspeptic husbands as college degree wives increase."

The department of home economics which Miss Otis goes to take charge of in September will begin turning out food specialists and nutrition experts in its first year. Among the new departures will be animal experimentation, such as testing diets on rats. The students will also try out the effects of foods upon themselves. They will spend half of their class time in hospital kitchens and milk stations.

Next year, when a study of textiles is inaugurated, the young women will go to the department stores to learn first hand the value of materials, fabric tests and designs.

"Our future wife certainly won't be buying shoddy woolens," Miss Otis assured.

Architecture, interior decorating, landscape gardening and a number of other courses are planned for later on. College graduate homes of the future will have their own consulting experts right at the helm in the kitchen. And if hubby shuffles off this with an automobile and is retired to metal coil on short notice or tangles the wheel brigade his mate will be prepared to keep the domestic craft from going on the rocks.

SECOND WARD VIES WITH THIRD WARD IN HOME BUILDING

Handsome, Substantial Homes Being Built and Many Prop'ty Owners Making Improvements.

CITY IS GROWING

About six weeks ago The Progress in order to properly place before our readers the immense amount of building being done abot our town, decided to make a tour of the town and list the improvements being made and take note of the unprecedented number of new homes and business places being erected throughout the town.

The first section to be visited was the Third Ward where about thirty-five new buildings were listed, with ten or a dozen additions being made to residences and business buildings already erected.

We promised then to complete the census or tour of the town but thus far have been prevented from again taking up that task by other duties. We found time this morning to visit the Second Ward and here is a list of the substantial improvements being made made in this section:

One of the prettiest of the new buildings in the Second ward section is the "Grandview Cabin" home of Dr. and Mrs. J. L. R. Heichhold on upper South Second street. It is a magnificent new two story stone building, constructed entirely of native Clearfield county stone, everyone of which was picked and selected by Mr. and Mrs. Heichhold.

Another fine home in this section is the two story brick bungalow-type home of Editor G. A. Stewart. It is fast nearing completion.

Also in this region of fine homes is the new large solid brick residence of A. W. Lee, Jr. This is one of the largest residences to be located in this section and when completed will be one of the finest.

Charles Peters has just completed a large brick garage and concrete driveway at his property on South Second street, midway between Spruce and Margaretta streets.

Dr. A. D. Cowdrick is completing a very fine red brick home on Spruce street between Second and Third streets.

Dudley, Jennie and Maude Powell, who recently disposed of their Market street property to the Clearfield Water Company, which has since converted the building into offices, are building a commodious brick home on one of the Reed plots, near the home of James Gray on South Second street.

The Clearfield Millwork and Lumber Company has just completed a large stock shed at the lumber yard on Spruce street.

The Clearfield Machine Shops have about completed the first unit of their new brick foundry and machine shops between South Fourth and South Third streets. This will prove to be "some plant" when completed and we expect to speak at length in an early issue of The Progress.

Harvey Mann has his handsome frame bungalow on upper Ogden avenue about ready for occupancy.

J. W. Oxley has moved his family into the fine frame bungalow he completed about two months ago on Ogden avenue.

Otis Rodgers kept pace with the improvement on this residence street by erecting a neat two story frame residence, and into which he has just moved.

Irven Koster has his handsome frame residence under roof at the corner of South Fourth and Ogden avenue.

The fine brick double dwelling of Fred Thompson on South Second street, near the Parochial school building, is receiving the finishing touches and will be ready for occupancy in a few weeks.

M. O. T. Sahm has completed a new two-story frame dwelling on South Third street, which he has had stuccoed and which presents a very pretty appearance, while a second dwelling which he located on the rear of this lot is also about completed and ready for occupancy.

Suddenly on the [illegible] appears—

NONA She is now Lady Tybar Sabre bicycling to work unexpectedly meets Nona and her dashing husband

LORD TYBAR

GO ON WITH THE STORY

Lord Tybar's lady who was twenty eight carried in her countenance and in her hair the pleasing complement of her lord's tan and olive hue and of his cropped black poll She was extraordinarily fair Her skin was of the hue and of the sheen of creamy silk and glowed beneath its hue It presented amazing delicacy and yet an exquisite firmness Children playing with her and she delighted in playing with children (but she was childless) often asked to stroke her face They would stare at her face in that immensely absorbed way in which children stare and then ask to touch her face and just stroke it their baby fingers were not more softly silken Of her half Lady Tybar had said frequently from her girlhood upwards that it was a most sickening nuisance She bound it tightly as if to punish and be firm with the sickening nuisance that it was to her

Her name was Nona

Out of a hundred people who passed her by quite a considerable number would have denied that she was beautiful Her face was round and saucy rather than oval and classical Incontestable the striking attraction of her complexion and of her hair, but not beautiful—quite a number would have said and [illegible] say Oh no pretty perhaps, in a way, but that's all

But her face was much more than beautiful to Sabre

IV

Greetings had been exchanged his apologies for his blundering descent upon them laughed at Lord Tybar was saying Well it's a tiger of a place, this Garden Home of yours Sabre—'

It's not mine, said Sabre God forbid'

'Ah you've not got the same beautiful local patriotism that I have It's one of my most elegant qualities, my passionate devotion to my countryside

'You're a bloated aristocrat and a bloodsucker Nona told him in her clear fine voice And you're living on estates which your brutal ancestors ravaged from the people That's what you are Tony I showed it you in the Searchlight yesterday And I say don't use elegant that's mine

Oh by gad, yes so I am' said Lord Tybar Bloodsucker Good lord fancy being a bloodsucker'

He looked so genuinely rueful and abashed that Sabre laughed and then said to Nona, Why is elegant yours Lady Tybar?'

She made a little pouting motion at him with her lips Marko I wish to goodness you wouldn't call me Lady Tybar Dash it we've called one another Nona and Marko for about a thousand years long before [illegible] ever [illegible] Lady [illegible] And just because [illegible] married

And Sabre [illegible] Lord Tybar What [illegible] matter what [illegible] or [illegible] anyway That's the way to [illegible] Sabre Trample [illegible] of my boy I'm a pacifist [illegible] of the feudal system I can't [illegible]

About [illegible] Marko don't be a completer noodle than you already are

Ah you're better it now Lord Tybar murmured I'm a noodle too the somethingth says

He [illegible] how give Sabre the impression of taking an even deeper enjoyment in the interval between his wife and Sabre than the enjoyment he clearly had in his own facetiousness He was slightly turned in his saddle so as to look directly at Nona and he listened and interposed and turned his eyes from her face to Sabre's and from Sabre's to hers with his handsome head slightly cocked to one side and with much gleaming in his eyes rather as if he had on some private mock

Fantastical notion' What mock could he have?

Well about my word elegant', Nona was going on and why it is mine I don't you see Sabre?

Sabre said he had Yes why yours?

Why Tony and I get fond of a word and then we have it for our own which not all of us it is and use it for everything And elegant's mine just now I'm dreadfully fond of it It's so well elegant there you are you see

JONAH'S GOING TO TAKE ME INTO PARTNERSHIP JUST TOLD ME HE SAID

The mare steadied again She stretched out her neck towards Sabre and quivered her nostrils at him sensing him He put up a hand to stroke her beautiful muzzle and she threw up her head violently and swerved sharply around

The mare was wheedled round again to her former position, against her will but somehow as the natural result of her dancing Marvelous how he directed her caprices into his own intentions and against her own But Lord Tybar was now looking away behind him to where the adjoining meadow sloped far away and steeply to a copse In the hollow only the tops of the trees could be seen His eyes were screwed up in distant vision He said Dash it there's that old blighter Soopers He's been avoiding me Now I've got him Nona, you won't mind getting back alone?'

He twisted the mare in a wonderfully quick and dextrous movement Goodly Sir Le You don't mind Nona? And he flashed back a glance at Sabre [illegible] superbly easy movement [illegible] to wave his hand [illegible] meadow [illegible] away image of [illegible] movement For [illegible] of the level valley [illegible] where only he could [illegible] the individual he might [illegible] at that distance, of cubic Ark dimensions "How he could have recognized any one" said Sabre [illegible] towards the valley I can't even see anyone He's got eyes like an [illegible] out four hawks!"

Sabre said And rides like a— what do they call those things?—like a centaur

She turned her head towards him He does everything better than any one else she said That's Tony's characteristic Everything He's perfectly wonderful

These were enthusiastic words but she spoke them without enthusiasm she merely pronounced them 'Well, I'm off too she said 'And what about you Marko? You're going to work aren't you? I don't think you ought to be able to stop and gossip like this You're not getting an older are you' You used to be such a devoted hard worker My word" and she laughed as though at some amused memory of his devotion to work

He laughed, too They certainly had many recollections in common though not all laughable "I don't think I'm quite so—so earnest as I used to be" he smiled

Ah, but I like you earnest Marko"

There was the tiniest silence between them Yet it seemed to Sabre a very long silence

She was again the one to speak, and her tone was rather abrupt and high pitched as if she, too, were conscious of a long silence and broke it deliberately, as one breaks, with an effort, constraint

'And how's Mabel?'

'She's all right. She's ever so keen on this Garden Home business.'

'She would be." said Nona.

"And so am I'" said Sabre. Something in her tone made him say it defiantly

She laughed "I'm sure you are, Marko Well goodby,' and as Derry and Toms began to turn with his customary sedateness of motion she made the remark I'm so glad you don't wear trouser clips, Marko. I do loathe trouser clips"

He told her that he rode "one of those chainless bikes"

He said it rather mumblingly. Exactly in that tone she used to say things like, I do like you in that brown suit, Marko"

He resumed his ride A mile farther on he overtook, on a slight rise, an immense tree trunk slung between three pairs of wheels and dragged by two tremendous horses, harnessed tandemwise. As he passed them came the smell of warm horseflesh and his thought was "Pretty!"

He shot ahead and a line came into his mind

Was this the face that launched a thousand ships?"

Well he had had certain aspirations dreams, visions . . .

CHAPTER II

I

SABRE found but little business awaiting him when he got to his office He took out the manuscript of England" and turned over the pages He wondered what Nona would think of it. He would like to tell her about it

Twyning came in

Twyning was of middle height, very thin, black haired. His clean-shaven face was deeply furrowed in rigid looking furrows which looked as though shaving would be an intricate operation He held himself very stiffly and spoke stiffly as though the cords of his larynx were also rigidly inclined When not speaking he had the habit of breathing rather noisily through his nose as if he were doing deep breathing exercises. He was married and had a son of whom he was immensely proud, aged eighteen and doing well in a lawyer's office

He came in and closed the door. He had a sheet of paper in his hand. 'Jonah's going to take me into partnership Just told me."

LIVE STOCK NEWS

PUREBRED FEMALES GAINING

Striking Development in Federal-State Campaign for Live Stock Improvement.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Noteworthy progress during the last three months in the federal state campaign for live-stock improvement is reported by the bureau of animal industry, United States Department of Agriculture. The most striking development is the increasing tendency for purebred-sire users to acquire purebred female stock as well In the period of January 1 to March 31 of this year, 970 persons filed with the department signed enrollment blanks, indorsed by county agents, showing the use of purebred sires exclusively for all classes of live stock kept. This number is an increase of 254 over the previous three months and is nearly three times as many as for the same period in 1921.

Although the department has stressed chiefly the use of purebred sires records of the "Better Sires, Better Stock" campaign show a gradual rise in the proportion of purebred female animals, including cattle, horses, swine, sheep, goats and poultry. The proportion of purebreds to the total of female animals kept now exceeds 35 per cent A decline in the proportion of scrub females in herds headed by purbred sires accompanied the rise in purebreds.

The greatest activity during the quarter was in Ohio, where 532 persons were enrolled—more than half of the total. Nebraska came second with 135 enrollments, Washington third with 126 and Kentucky fourth with 121. A new state Michigan, entered the campaign actively Virginia has been the premier state since the beginning, the campaign from the start of persons participating Nebraska accumes first place in number of animals being bred to purebred sires. Ohio, which at the beginning of the year occupied third place, is now second and is fast approaching the leader. The returns from Green county, Ohio, show a unique result. There were 130 persons enrolled The live stock owned totaled 17,226 and among these there was but one scrub in sow There was an abundance, however of grades and crossbreeds, indicating widespread use of purebred sires in the county Among the ten counties in the United States highest in number of purebred-sire enrollments four are in Ohio. One of them, Hardin county, is second only to Pulaski county, Virginia.

The most active counties during the three months' period were Hancock and Green counties, Ohio, Kittitas county, Washington, Oldham county Kentucky, Dodge county, Nebraska and Hardin county, Ohio Comments received by the department from live-stock users show an increasing appreciation of the value of purebreds Numerous disposals of grade sires to be replaced by purebreds are reported.

GOOD TREATMENT PAYS BEST

Most Profitable Beef Animal Is One That Has Capacity to Eat and Produce Meat.

W. H Peters, professor of animal husbandry at University farm, emphasizes the fact that the most profitable beef animal is the one that has the capacity to eat and manufacture into beef the greatest amount of feed, and not the one that can subsist on the least and poorest ration.

"There are thousands of two and three-year-old beef cattle that can eat plenty of feed," he says, "but many of them are not able to manufacture much beef out of it, largely because their growth was stunted, their vitality weakened, and their beefy conformation lost through lack of proper and sufficient feed when they were calves.

"Present high prices for cattle and feed," says Mr Peters, "make it more clear than ever before that there are two ways of securing a profit from beef cattle, through the production of a good, well grown beefy type of animal, and by keeping down the cost of production to the minimum consistent with full development.

Sows Need Exercise.

In order that the sow may come to farrowing time in proper thrift, it is necessary that she have plenty of exercise.

Bituminous coal sold at an average price per short ton of $4.06 wholesale and $5.74 retail throughout the United States during the first six months of 1922 according to records of the Department of Commerce.

Average prices in 1914 were: Wholesale, $2.20; retail, $5.73.

Prices of the current year compare with the pre-war quotations as follows: Wholesale, 84 per cent increase, retail, 70 per cent increase.

Government officials figure that with these data to analyze that the cost of coal has not advanced to the small consumer or retail buyer in the same proportion as to the industrial purchaser or large user.

The coal strike, according to the data of the Commerce Department, did not cause the expected tremendous increase in price of bituminous coal. The average prices of this fuel (monthly basis) for the first half of 1922 are below the average of 1920

PHIL DOUGLAS OF NEW YORK GIANTS IS BANNED FROM GAME

The heavy penalty for dishonesty in major league baseball has again been meted out and this time Pitcher Phil Douglas, the spitball hurler of the New York Giants is the victim. Yesterday, Douglas, after admitting, according to Judge Landis and officials of the New York club, that he had made an effort to obtain money by "throwing" baseball games, was indefinitely suspended from major league ball, which means the end of his career on major and minor league diamond, under the jurisdiction of organized baseball.

Douglass, according to Judge Landis, who was here yesterday with President John Heydler of the National League, had made a proposition to a player on one of the pennant contending clubs of the circuit to throw games in which he worked for a monetary remuneration and thus jeopardize New York's pennant chances and aid those of the three western contenders at the present

Neither Landis nor the officials of the New York club would divulge the name of the player to whom the proposition was made or the nature of it but it is thought that the offer was made in St. Louis.

Peat a Perfect Fuel.

Peat is used in Ireland to such an extent that few people in the country districts ever burn coal The odor of peat is healthful and pleasant, and it gives out neither fumes nor dirt

Average prices in 1920 were as follows: Whole sale, $5.85 per short ton or $4.70 more than in 1922; first half of 1922, as emphasized, includes three months of the strike, which began in April

Officials of the Federal Fuel Control Organization refuse to predict on the possibility of coal prices going higher than at present Many farmers and big buyers of coal expect higher over the outlook.

Coal prices by years, as compiled monthly by the Department of Commerce, are as follows:

Year	Per Short Ton Wholesale.	Retail.
1914	$2.20	$5.73
1916	2.68	5.60
1918	3.88	7.80
1920	5.85	11.21
1922 (six months)	4.06	9.71

Good Prospects For A Return To Work In The Anthracite Coal Field

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug 17.—Negotiations which it is believed will result in the termination of the anthracite coal suspension will open here today. A conference between John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, and his delegates, and member of the operators negotiations committee will be held in the office of S. D. Warriner, President of the Lehigh Coal & Navigation Company and spokesman for the hard coal operators. The meeting will be called at 2 00 o'clock.

New York, N. Y., Aug. 17.—The Sampio Correia, the mammoth seaplane, hopped off on its 8,500 mile flight to Rio de Janeiro at 7:20 this morning. Slowly rising from its hangar the giant plane started winging its way to Charleston, S. C., on the first lap of the long flight. Walter Hinton, pilot and commander, expected to reach Charleston in less than seven hours. Five hundred gallons of gasoline were poured into its tanks before the start.

BIG REWARDS FOR BRAIN

Announcement is made that since an accounting was filed by the executor Theodore Roosevelt's estate has been increased $50,000 by the payment of book royalties earned before his death but only recently paid It is probable the Roosevelt heirs will receive income for many years from this source Good books live and are in demand long after death claims their authors

Mark Twain's estate received one recent year from the subscription publisher of his works over $80,000 One book of adventure first published almost fifty years ago "goes big" among the boys of today and must be a source of large profit to the author's heirs, if they have managed to retain an interest in it.

Book copyrights are valuable property, provided the works have value It is just that the author have what they earn, and his heirs after him Put this is contrary to the theory of not a few of the most vociferous preachers on "human rights" These people would count the author out and give the rewards to the men who had a hand in manufacturing the material book These are the "workers," they think Production is the work of hand alone, according to them

Put no hand ever worked for more than fighting and scratching unless it were directed by a brain, unless somebody thought out processes by which hands might transform raw materials into constructive products Authors of books make work for thousands in the various branches of the publishing business and they are entitled to the major profits arising from their work The demand for brain in creative activities

THE PARTICULATE MANY

The silent multitude are a part of us The needle in our telephone books and directories they are enrolled as taxpayers on the assessment rolls and on the lists of customers prospects or "suckers" When estimates are made on the total voting strength of the nation or on national income, or the community's need for fuel the inarticulate many are always included

But however voluminously he may submit to having himself counted, classified and compared the inarticulate individual does not responsible for matters which require utterance on his part When occasions present it, it matters little on what subject—political religious or economic—the sender can never expect to have returned to him more than three answers out of every one hundred he sends out It is safe to say that seventy per cent of us make up the great army of the inarticulate

To the orders out of our commanders this is a distressing situation It means that the civil always a vast multitude whose preferences and tastes we may never know anything It always leaves in doubt the very things about which we seek certainty Should the person who neglect to reply ever take it into their head to make known their opinions, this great reserve army of doubt might rush to some bits any orders to which we had come, on the basis of the three per cent articulate

Put not only in the matter of our commanders is this sign of inarticulate reserve in which to our endeavor for social progress The thinking may be very active and clear but they will never act in the highest results unless the regard each got to do their best For the interests of the state for civilization demand, to a degree only to dominate which it can not be exercised Throughout all the ages it is the part of the few to which public leaders have had to address themselves

Indeed, looked at from the point of view our whole process of civilization has been little more than the search for the most effective method of giving the inarticulate member of society a voice Democracies are to succeed they must find ways and means by which the mass of inarticulate may be decoodized and become part of the alert-thinking and active thirty per cent who have what they want and take advantage of every opportunity to move them went forward

THE GENUINE OPTIMIST

One of the encouraging evidences of the sanity of the public mind is the growing influence with the better element of the genuine optimist Sometimes he is regarded by the cynic as the simpleton of life Neither is a thoughtless soul or without reason or condition without thought of the future Public or private the optimist finds his way with the pessimist to failure

And in order to distinguish between the optimist and the pessimist it is only necessary to refer to the fundamental basis of their beliefs If they are scientifically clear, then the optimist can confidently look for the sequence of joy and personal experience will follow But if the whole concept of right rests on a false or doubtful ground, not yet fulfilled, but eternally to be

Let us have an optimistic faith in the right-reserve and proceed to the work of optimist Hitch your wagon to a star and there the practical modern utilitarian made as he would demand his breakfast by noon Although it may come to him who waits for it he needs it earlier, but it comes to the doer of the deed first

THE FINAL ADJUSTMENT

The practical settlement of Cleveland opens the way for the end of the coal strike What has been gained and lost in the twenty-week struggle?

The adjustment is on the old scale The original controversy remains where it was The men have lost millions in wages The country has lost millions in the jump back to war prices Moreover, the people slowly adjusting itself to normal conditions, finds itself facing higher fuel cost

There is but one redeeming feature the provision for a thorough investigation of the whole mining situation by a commission to be appointed by the President to report by January 1923

It is surely time some means was found, in industries of vital public service, where the inability of those concerned to keep it running should be compensated by a superior authority that could protect the public —Pittsburgh Dispatch

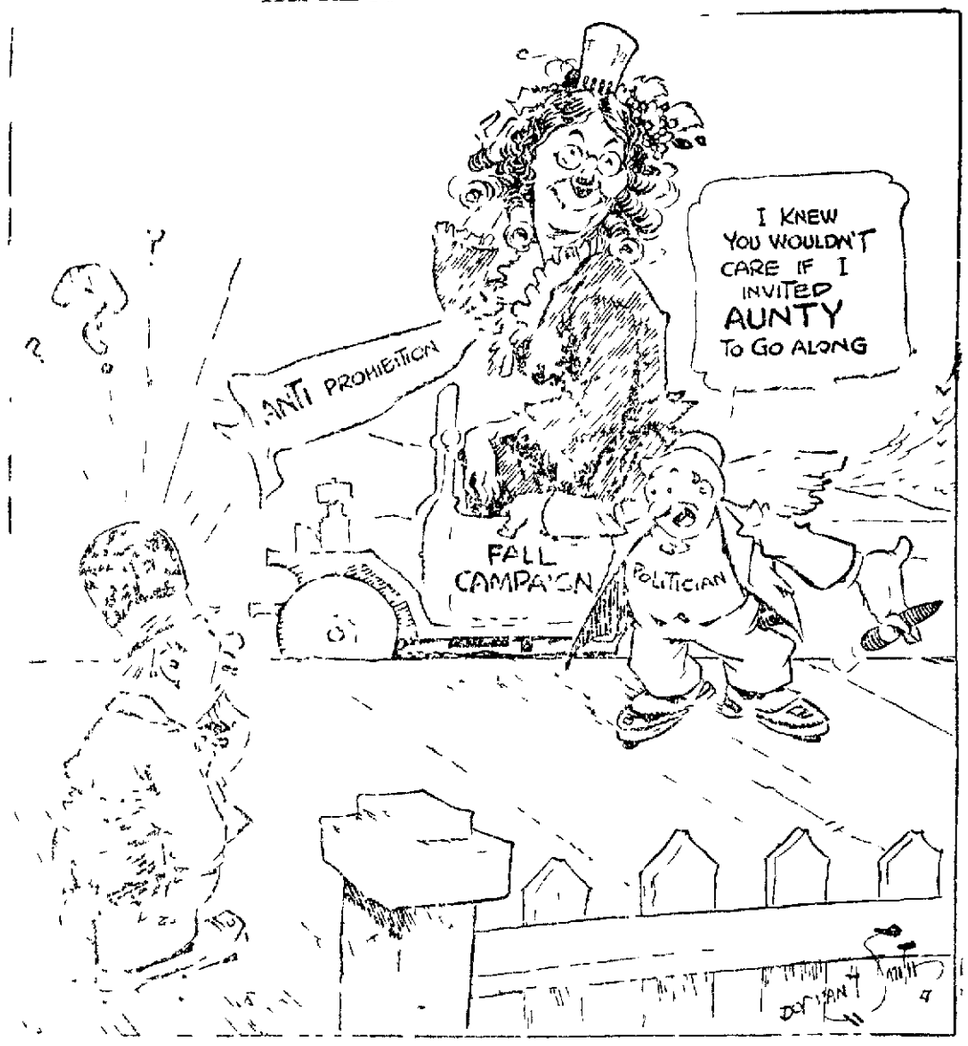
HE'LL HARDLY GO ALONG!



The Mount Union (Pa) "Times" publishes a letter signed "Farmer's daughter" complaining of the way which she says city people impose on their country relatives It is not believed that most country people feel the way about visits from their city relatives and friends the writer of the letter does They are more glorious, less clish At any rate there is considerable truth in her remarks and a good purpose will be served by their publication if they lead urban folks to be more considerate of their rural relatives when visiting them

Farmer Daughter says

Why don't you folks who boast to us how you are making so much money go to a country hotel and pay their board instead of imposing on them country friends? Farmers' wives and daughters have enough work at this season of the year without having to bother with visitors during the hot weather Most mothers is about worn out from working for dear all the year round with no pleasure and other place of vacation We would be glad if the [illegible] for a few days now and then but we are careful when all this visiting in the [illegible]

Resumption Is News Of Day

The suspension of the cable service was looked upon by officials in New York as of a temporary nature. It was not believed here that the cables were cut or that the stations were damaged in any way.

By the seizure, exchange of cable despatches between Ireland, Great Britain, France, Germany and Northern Europe over the lines of the Commercial Cable Company was impossible.

The Pennsylvania cables of the Western Union Company are carrying the business of the Commercial Cable company, officials of the Western Union reported to New York Tuesday. Radio [illegible] to the navy and Standard Oil companies were handled by the Radio Corporation of America, while the Press Cable company reported its service under normal conditions.

The Irish instruments took over the Western Union cable station at Valentia on the Kerry Coast and the Commercial company's station at Waterville, southwestern Ireland. The officials of both companies refused the matter by saying that the irregulars "are not permitting the operators to work."

Ordinarily thirteen cables handle the commercial and news messages between the United States and Great Britain. Ten of these were not operating the day of the seizure. The Commercial Cable Company's steamer of communication were entirely shut off and the three lines operating were those of the Western Union.

Here's Perseverence

A portion of the United Press reports Tuesday were relayed to New York from England by the way of Buenos Aires.

Relaying press stories by way of three countries brings to mind the situation in this country a few years ago when Boston was shut off from all means of communication with New York. During a severe storm telegraph and telephone wires in New England were put out of commission and New York was shut off from communication with Boston. Stories were sent by cable to London and relayed to Boston and through London Boston got in touch with New York.

Attar of Roses.

Attar of roses, which is an oil, is obtained from three species of wild roses: Rosa centifolia, R. moschata, and R. damascena. The rose gardens at Ghazipur, India, have long been famous for their output of oil of roses. All these roses thrive with little care in California.

SECOND WARD VIES

A. G. Bartholomew has completed the addition to his home on South Fourth street. He is another of the newly remodeled residences of Clearfield.

F. S. Pifland is completing the foundation for his new home to be erected at the corner of East Locust and Walnut streets.

Port Gurley has also completed a two-story addition to his frame dwelling on South Fourth street.

James Hudson added a two story frame addition to his brick dwelling at the upper end of Ogden Avenue.

Ira Hess has also finished a two story frame addition to his home on South Fourth street.

The Welch'l sisters have improved and enlarged their home on Pine street, this improvement adding considerably to the dimensions of the house.

Charles Lloyd raised his two story frame dwelling on Spruce street, added a new wing and placed a substantial brick wall under same.

John W. Reed has added a handsome and commodious brick portico to his South Front street home.

The A. W. Leitzinger Company store on Market street, is now putting in its new front to complete the addition and enlargement of that big establishment. The Dufton Hardware Company will start work in a few days on the erection of a four story brick building to take care of their rapidly increasing business, while their neighbors Robinson & Company, will go along with the improvement and be enlarging their present store building with a three story brick. But like the big improvement of the Clearfield Machine Shops these business buildings are all worthy of more attention that can be given them at this time and we will deal with each separately in a later article.

The above hasty resume of this week's building activities in the Second Ward which is being matched in every other section of the town is conclusive evidence of the substantial growth of old Clearfield and a lasting present proof of the claim that Clearfield is the best and be best town and most progressive community in the entire West Branch Valley.

Home-Made Floor Oil.

One part boiled linseed oil thinned with three parts turpentine makes a good floor oil, says the Scientific American; while one part light, highly refined engine oil combined with four parts kerosene gives results similar to coating of shellac.

Fish as Personal Decoration.

The natives of Nauru in the Pacific make use of fish for personal adornment on many occasions, especially for the "fish dance." The fish are very brilliant and are tied in great numbers about the person of the dancers. Forty or 50 fishes are sometimes strung about each native. After use in this manner they are eaten.

His Dearest Wish.

The neighbor children were all invited to Roy's birthday party. As each child lit a candle on the cake he was to wish for some thing. Charley said: "I wish my mother would forget to tell me I doesn't have two pieces of cake when I come to your party again."

Unconscious, and alone but for his guardian dog, Lucy found The Man—the man who had captured the wild horse that had eluded all others.

And then, one of her father's horses stolen, another poisoned, the girl carried the family colors to victory—for "Wildfire," creature of the forests and the plains, gave his all—for he knew what victory meant in love and happiness.

It's the most thrilling of motion pictures, with action only pausing for laughs and the heart grip of a wonderful love story that every woman would like for her very own.

As big as the great outdoors, as clean as nature itself, as pulsing with life as creatures of the wild—and with such a background an amazing love story.

It's the sort of a love story every woman would like for her own—that will give every man a thrill.

An amazing victory "Wildfire" wins, and Romance rides upon his back.

Even horses and dogs sensed their amazing romance—and made their happiness secure.

Its' a Zane Grey story—that means action—a clean atmosphere—a moving love story. And its' all that a motion picture should be.

"Wildfire" wins! And it was not alone the victory of the race, but of love and justice.

Laughs follow thrills, but the grip of the heart holds until Romance has ridden its way to complete victory.

Your heart will beat to the clattering of racing horses' feet pulse with the deeds of the great outdoors, grip with the suspense of an amazing love story.

The best of fiction become real—vivid, sturdy, upstanding men—lovable understanding women—deeds that stir your blood, a romance that warms your heart.

One of her fathers' horses stolen, another "doped," yet out of the wilds she brought a horse and won a victory—won for the family honor—and for the heart of her's, too.

Alone in the wilderness she found him, and gave him life and hope. From the wilds, too, he saved her and brought her back to the world and the fullness of love.

A story of an unbeatable horse—"Wildfire"—and of romance that you will envy.

BARNETT—GLENN

At the Simpson Methodist church at 10:30 Wednesday morning Rev. O. B. Poulson, conference evangelist of the Methodist church, united in marriage Miss Cora M. Glenn of this city and Mr. Benjamin D. Barnett of Olanta, Clearfield county. The ring ceremony was used. The couple were attended by Mr. Ralph Barnett a brother of the bridegroom, and Miss Vena Glenn, a cousin of the bride. The bride resides at 2024 Fourth avenue and for some time has been employed as a forelady at the Altoona silk mill. The bridegroom is supervising principal of the Woodward township schools in Clearfield county. The young people departed on Lehigh express to spend a honeymoon in Buffalo and Niagara Falls.—Altoona Mirror.

Tractor Display To Show Complete Line

The Pittsburg Auto Equipment Co. will stage an exhibit of the latest known devices in automobile and tractor repair work at the Fordson tractor show to be held in Pittsburg during the week of Sept. 11 to 16.

A display of this equipment, made by the Dearborn Equipment Co. of Kalamazoo, Mich., will be a feature of the show. Recently, at Philadelphia, the Ford motor branch of that city staged a demonstration of this line with surprising results, hardly a tool being left on the floor at the completion of the show.

Baltimore, Washington and Richmond will stage tractor shows in the late summer and fall and it will be interesting and instructive for everyone that can possibly go to attend the local exhibit.

Burning-in and running-in-machines, motor stands, connecting rod and piston alignment devices, lifting hooks, tow bars, cranking devices, test fixtures, wheel clamps and test plugs will be some of the items shown.

The demand for up-to-date tools for efficient car repair is remarkable and dealers all over the country are apparently awake to the thousands of repair possibilities being manufactured daily by our big car manufacturers.

FROM GIRLHOOD TO WOMANHOOD

Woman Relied Upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Emporia, Kansas.—"I began using Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines years ago when I was a girl. For several years I had severe pains at menstrual periods, making me very weak and interfering with my regular duties. I tried several remedies without obtaining relief. I was induced to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound by friends and it restored me to normal health. I often have occasion and do recommend your Vegetable Compound to my friends who have troubles similar to my own. You may use these facts as a testimonial."—EVA ALDRICH, 218 Union St., Emporia, Kansas.

There are many women who first used our Vegetable Compound during their girlhood days. They found it a valuable help during trying periods. In later years they use it whenever they feel those annoying symptoms which women often have.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a woman's medicine. It is prepared carefully from the best quality of medicinal plants, whose properties are especially adapted to correct the troubles women have.

YOU can buy a Studebaker Big-Six Touring Car today for $1650. This is the lowest price ever made for a car of Studebaker high quality.

Always a matchless value, the Big-Six stands out today strikingly than ever in the field of fine cars.

The seven-passenger Big-Six is not a "volume" motor car, but you get it at a volume price because the Studebaker organization produces and sells three quality models with only one overhead.

Look over the field. Check the many points that will appeal to you in the selection of a car. See the Big-Six. Ride in it—you'll take you for a demonstration any time you say. Try the wheel yourself. Then compare it with any other car, even at two or three times its price, and you will appreciate how much more you get for your money in a Big-Six than you can find anywhere else.

The price of the Big Six was reduced at a time when Studebaker had unfilled orders on hand for more than 15,000 cars. The first seven months of this year were the best in Studebaker's 70 years' history. Capacity production lowers costs and Studebaker believes that its manufacturing savings should be shared with the customer. Hence the new low price of the Big-Six.

LITTLE MISS GAGE

who will ask other little girls to call to see the Little Miss Gage Line of Hats for Fall.

Little Miss Gage wants to meet the little girls of Clearfield to tell them something about the line of hats for girls from four to fourteen which have been named after her.

Doubtless your mother or big sister has worn a Gage Hat, and if you will ask her she will tell you about its good qualities. If neither of them has as yet, you may be the one to set them a good example.

Any way or all, come over to Leonardson's store and look at the Little Miss Gage Line. You will find hats of duvetyn, plush and velvet, some for dress up and some for play. All of them have an adjustable lining, so that they may be made to stay on your head, no matter how hard the wind blows or how fast you run.

THE CONTEST

Some little girl in Clearfield (perhaps it is you) is going to have a chance to win a Little Miss Gage Hat as a reward for her skill in coloring the pictures in a very quaint little folder we have called "Little Miss Gage in Fairyland."

Ask for one and for the particulars.

RAIL PEACE HINGES ON CONFERENCE OF BELLIGERANTS TODAY AT NEW YORK; HARDING WILL KEEP HANDS OFF STRIKE

Brotherhood Chiefs Will Act For The Striking Shopmen In Latest Effort To Bring About Harmony On Railways Of Nation.

NEW YORK, August 17.—Railroad peace today hinged on the conference between union leaders and rail executives here. The Big Four, headed by Warren S. Stone, and a committee of executives headed by T. DeWitt Cuyer, were ready to confer this afternoon in an effort to end the strike of 400,000 shopmen.

The Brotherhood leaders will go into the conference as agents for the shopmen and will go prepared to offer a new plan for settlement. Chiefs of sixteen other striking and non-striking unions were also assembled, including Bert. M. Jewell, chief of the railroad department of the American Federation of Labor.

Leaders of the opposing sides were optimistic that a settlement of the long drawn-out rail tie-up would come out of the conference. President Stone announced that other officials would be within call in case their counsel were needed during the negotiations.

Washington, D. C., August 17.—Fear of embarrassing the peace discussions between the railroad executives and the heads of the Big Four Brotherhoods in New York may cause President Harding to postpone his scheduled appearance before Congress with his summary of the rail and coal strikes. Mr. Harding stated on Tuesday that he would place the critical industrial situation before Congress within forty-eight hours. The time limit expires today. The President is not optimistic for a settlement but he hopes that a basis for negotiations may be worked out. There was no official word from the White House as to when the President would appear before Congress to deliver his message.

This afternoon the coal operators of District No. 2 will meet here to decide on a course of action on the wage scale made at Cleveland. The meeting will not adjourn in time for today's paper, which is being published a little early owing to the Thursday afternoon holiday. Full proceedings of the day's developments will be found in tomorrow's Progress.

STRIKE MAY CAUSE SHIFT OF TRADE IN CONNELSVILLE COKE

By JOHN NIMICK
(United Press Staff Correspondent.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 17.—(United Press.)—The rich Connellsville coal and coke region may never again hold the same place in relation to steel industry in the Pittsburgh district.

Scores of mines along the Monongahela river may never be reopened, it is predicted, following important discoveries by independent steel manufacturers, who were forced to look elsewhere for their coking coal on account of the miners strike in the Connellsville field.

Heretofore, coal and coke from Monongahela river mines were considered indispensable to steel making. Following certain discoveries, however, steel men say they only can use about 50 per cent of the normal output in the Connellsville district.

One of the outstanding developments in the steel industry as a direct result of the coal strike, is the attention given to production of by product coke, and the knowledge that steel plants can use coal from other than the Connellsville region. Besides, it was pointed out, the by-product ovens at the mills have the advantage over beehive ovens at the mines in quantity and quality of coke produced.

Independent steel makers found that by mixing coal from the west Virginian field with equal quantities of Connellsville or Monongahela river coal, they produced a higher grade coke and a greater yield per ton.

"A mixture of 40 per cent Pocahontas (West Virginia coal) with 60 per cent Connellsville coal is being used at by-product plants with good results, in some cases increasing the output of a blast furnace from 20 to 25 per cent." A leading independent steel manufacturer said:

"Should this trend to use low volatile coal continue, it means that mines which produce coal for coking purposes in Western Pennsylvania face a reduced demand of 40 to 50 per cent below their pre-strike output."

Cable news service between Great Britain and the United States was thrown into a chaotic state Tuesday when two cable stations, one at Waterville and the other at Valentia Ireland, were seized by the Irish irregular forces. Of the thirteen cables linking this country with England, but three were in operation and these were jammed with a rush of business of commercial and press matter. Most of the service of the United Press and the International News Service on that day was forwarded at the regular commercial rate. The Associated Press received its foreign news matter for the most part at press rates and, while it was somewhat delayed, a good amount of matter was dispatched.

Wireless Used

The radio supplemented the cable for the International News Service. This organization has utilized the wireless for a lengthy period and its value as a part of the newsgathering and distributing service was proven in the emergency. Because of the limited amount of cable news the volume received by wireless was greater than upon ordinary occasions.

The first day of the hampered service was perhaps the worst ever experienced by newsgathering agencies in recent years. Delays in regular press messages were from ten minutes to twelve hours. The Associated Press reported to The Fourth Estate that one of their stories was twelve hours late arriving at its destination. This was the most serious delay. Others ranged from ten minutes to an hour.

On Wednesday the service by cable was better, the delays not so long and the amount of news received was of something like normal volume. The more important news events of the day were reported fully and came in good time. The stories of Lloyd George's conference and of Irish matters were received in New York in detail and speedily.

Dispatches on Wednesday were relayed from London to Brest and thence to New York via Coney Island.

Press Rates

The ordinary press cable rate is seven cents a word while the commercial rate is twenty-five cents. Frequently when news of more than ordinary interest breaks in the foreign fields it is necessary to dispatch it at full rate to insure greater speed in delivery and at times press associations pay triple rates to secure results. It is readily seen that the full rate service of the cable companies in this week's emergency was not a move to take advantage of the situation.

FIREMEN WILL BE CLEARFIELD GUESTS AT NEXT CONVENTION

The 1923 convention of the Central District Volunteer Firemen's convention will be held at Clearfield. This was decided upon at yesterday's convation in DuBois.

Clearfield was the only town to ask for next year's convention and the selection was unanimous. M. M. Overly, delegate representing our department, placed Clearfield in nomination.

Officers elected for the ensuing year just before the convention adjourned at 4 o'clock this afternoon, are as follows:

President—Alex Kreher, Clearfield.

First Vice President—Joseph Maier, DuBois.

Second Vice President — James Trimble, Patton.

Secretary—John E. Johnson, DuBois.

Treasurer—H. B. Scott, Philipsburg.

Delegate to State Convention—John Hodge, DuBois.

Alternate Delegate to State Convention—Iser Damus, DuBois.

The president, second vice president and treasurer were elected without opposition.

34 Companies Represented.

Sixty-eight delegates and alternates, representing 34 of the 49 companies, were in attendance at the Avenue Theater when President Fred Weston called the thirtieth annual convention of the Central Pennsyvania Volunteer Firemen's Association to order.

CLEARFIELD-CURWENSVILLE COUNTRY CLUB TRANSFORMED INTO BEAUTY SPOT IS MECCA OF HUNDREDS ON WEEK-ENDS

Club House Remodeled And Doubled In Size. Gold Course In Excellent Shape. Week-End Dinners And Dances Regular Feature Popular With The Club Members.

It is said that nature cannot be beautified, but a combination of the beauties of nature, landscape engineering and architectural design has brought forth a result at the Clearfield-Curwensville Country Club far beyond the fondest expectations of the directors of the Club who about a year ago started to improve the forty acre estate on which the old club house was located.

The Clearfield-Curwensville Country Club is situated about midway between Clearfield and Curwensville on the Lakes-to-the-Sea Highway, it being a part of the old Ai F. Boynton farm on the flat above the road. So popular had this recreation spot become in the last few years that their club house was entirely too small to accommodate the large crowds coming there to enjoy golf, tennis and other sports, to say nothing of the wonderful club dinners and dances which are a regular feature on Saturday evenings.

The club house is reached by a picturesque winding automobile road one half mile in length from the highway and on approaching the top of the hill the newly enlarged club house, nestled in a grove of native maples, greets the eye, as do also the well groomed tennis courts and perfectly turfed golf course.

Everything for the convenience and comfort of members and their guests is at hand under the new arrangements. A caretaker and chef, also a golf instructor, are on the grounds at all times. The club house has been doubled in size and is completely outfitted with heat, electric lighting, running hot and cold water, ladies dressing rooms and two separate sets of shower baths. The best of spring spring water is provided by means of an electrical pump which raises the water from an elegant spring located just back of the club house.

The architectural design of the club house proper is beautiful. A large open porch spread across the entire front of the building facing the golf course and base ball diamond. The center of the club house is utilized as a dining room which will seat over one hundred diners. To the left of the main dining room is a party or luncheon room with individual tables for twenty-eight diners. To the right of the dining room is a large, commodious lounging room with piano and victrola, also a gentlemens' card room. Between the front porch and the inside rooms there are handsome sun parlors extending all the way around the one side of the club house.

To the rear of the dining room are the kitchens where every device known to modern domestic science has been installed. On the second floor there are living quarters for the keeper, the golf instructor and the chef.

The golf course is no doubt the most popular phase of the Clearfield-Curwensville Country Club life. It is a regulation 2900 yard, 9 hole course and is kept in the pink of condition by the aid of a Ford tractor attached to a lawn mowing machine.

A dinner dance is given every Saturday evening under the direction of the Club directors and since the new

TO MAKE BETTER WIVES

New University Department Has Catechism For Brides To Answer Before The Plunge

By LUCILE F. SAUNDERS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, August 16.—(United Press)—Qualifications for brides have taken a change for the better.

The old fashioned girl who thought she could get past the gates of matrimony with a hand embroidered trousseau and a superficial knowledge of chafing dish recipes will find that she has lost her claim to a steady matrimonial job.

This is Miss Florence A. Otis' view of the new generation of girls. And Miss Otis ought to know, for she has just recently been made head of the new department in theschool for women at the University of Cincinnati and is to begin spreading her particular brand of gospel through the class rooms of that municipal educational enterprise within a few days.

"Home making is becoming a profession," Miss Otis said, as she sat up in her apartment near Columbia university making plans for the coming year. "The modern girl doesn't like to be tied down. She wants independence. If she studies home making thoroughly enough, she is always prepared to take care of herself in cases of emergency.

"Happier husbands should go hand in hand with housekeeping, that is on a scientific basis. The modern man is going to have little cause for complaint, because we intend to give his future bride a five years professional course in the complicated art of being a wife."

Here is the imposing catechism Miss Otis says the college graduate bride should be able to answer in the affirmative before she steps to the altar:

"Do you know all about good food habits?

"Do you know the fundamentals of general hygiene?

"Can you design your home and its furnishings tastefully?

"Can you organize your time efficiently?

"Can you spend your household allowance for food and clothing intelligently?

"If you are going to have hired help, can you manage them?

"Do you understand the psychology of children, what books they should read and what should be their entertainment?

"If you know all these things are you going to bury yourself in efficiency and business management to such an extent that you forget to be attractive to your husband?"

"Home economics no longer means mere cooking and sewing," Miss Otis explained. "The more practical and well organized the home, the more it appeals to the girl. By opening up new spheres of home-making, we do not mean to minimize the importance of the home. We will teach the young wife how to be more economical and bring her babies up better and show her what is needed for a sound, healthy body. There should be fewer dyspeptic husbands as college degree wives increase."

The department of home economics which Miss Otis goes to take charge of in September will begin turning out food specialists and nutrition experts in its first year. Among the new departures will be animal experimentation, such as testing diets on rats. The students will also try out the effects of foods upon themselves. They will spend half of their class time in hospital kitchens and milk stations.

Next year, when a study of textiles is inaugurated, the young women will go to the department stores to learn first hand the value of materials, fabric tests and designs.

"Our future wife certainly won't be buying shoddy woolens," Miss Otis assured.

Architecture, interior decorating, landscape gardening and a number of other courses are planned for later on. College graduate homes of the future will have their own consulting experts right at the helm in the kitchen. And if hubby shuffles off this with an automobile and is retired to metal coil on short notice or tangles the wheel brigade his mate will be prepared to keep the domestic craft from going on the rocks.

SECOND WARD VIES WITH THIRD WARD IN HOME BUILDING

Handsome, Substantial Homes Being Built and Many Prop'ty Owners Making Improvements.

CITY IS GROWING

About six weeks ago The Progress in order to properly place before our readers the immense amount of building being done abot our town, decided to make a tour of the town and list the improvements being made and take note of the unprecedented number of new homes and business places being erected throughout the town.

The first section to be visited was the Third Ward where about thirty-five new buildings were listed, with ten or a dozen additions being made to residences and business buildings already erected.

We promised then to complete the census or tour of the town but thus far have been prevented from again taking up that task by other duties. We found time this morning to visit the Second Ward and here is a list of the substantial improvements being made made in this section:

One of the prettiest of the new buildings in the Second ward section is the "Grandview Cabin" home of Dr. and Mrs. J. L. R. Heichhold on upper South Second street. It is a magnificent new two story stone building, constructed entirely of native Clearfield county stone, everyone of which was picked and selected by Mr. and Mrs. Heichhold.

Another fine home in this section is the two story brick bungalow-type home of Editor G. A. Stewart. It is fast nearing completion.

Also in this region of fine homes is the new large solid brick residence of A. W. Lee, Jr. This is one of the largest residences to be located in this section and when completed will be one of the finest.

Charles Peters has just completed a large brick garage and concrete driveway at his property on South Second street, midway between Spruce and Margaretta streets.

Dr. A. D. Cowdrick is completing a very fine red brick home on Spruce street between Second and Third streets.

Dudley, Jennie and Maude Powell, who recently disposed of their Market street property to the Clearfield Water Company, which has since converted the building into offices, are building a commodious brick home on one of the Reed plots, near the home of James Gray on South Second street.

The Clearfield Millwork and Lumber Company has just completed a large stock shed at the lumber yard on Spruce street.

The Clearfield Machine Shops have about completed the first unit of their new brick foundry and machine shops between South Fourth and South Third streets. This will prove to be "some plant" when completed and we expect to speak at length in an early issue of The Progress.

Harvey Mann has his handsome frame bungalow on upper Ogden avenue about ready for occupancy.

J. W. Oxley has moved his family into the fine frame bungalow he completed about two months ago on Ogden avenue.

Otis Rodgers kept pace with the improvement on this residence street by erecting a neat two story frame residence, and into which he has just moved.

Irven Koster has his handsome frame residence under roof at the corner of South Fourth and Ogden avenue.

The fine brick double dwelling of Fred Thompson on South Second street, near the Parochial school building, is receiving the finishing touches and will be ready for occupancy in a few weeks.

M. O. T. Sahm has completed a new two-story frame dwelling on South Third street, which he has had stuccoed and which presents a very pretty appearance, while a second dwelling which he located on the rear of this lot is also about completed and ready for occupancy.

ARE YOU GIVING YOUR CHILDREN OUR SAFE MILK?

Are you sure that the milk that is going into their little "tummies" is as safe as they can possibly have it? Are you sure that it is the kind of milk that goes into muscle and brawn and makes them have that solid, sturdy look that goes with perfect health Are you sure that you are giving them a milk that will help them develop their mental capacity as well as their little bodies?

You are if you are giving them the milk that we are serving every day. You're not if you aren't.

After [illegible] years of retirement MARK [illegible] and Lady Lilshire [illegible] and his wife

[illegible] have [illegible] different tastes in [illegible] Sabre delights in poetry in which form in dramatics [illegible] shared by the [illegible] and snobbish Mabel

In order to [illegible] work he is the heir of Fortune [illegible] and Sabre [illegible] and school outfitter in which Sabre has charge of the publishing department Sabre visits his [illegible] but charming neighbors at Farnham [illegible] Young Perch and his invalid mother

Suddenly on their [illegible] appears—

NONA She is a lady Lybar Sabre bicycling to work unexpectedly meets Nona and her dashing husband

LORD TYBAR

GO ON WITH THE STORY

Lord Tybar's lady who was twenty eight carried in her countenance and in her hair the pleasing complement of her lord's tan and olive hue and of his cropped black poll She was extraordinarily fair Her skin was of the hue and of the sheen of creamy silk and glowed beneath its hue It presented amazing delicacy and yet an exquisite firmness Children playing with her and she delighted in playing with children (but she was childless) often asked to stroke her face They would stare at her face in that intensely absorbed way in which children stare and then ask to touch her face and just stroke it their baby fingers were not more softly silken Of her half Lady Lybar had said frequently from her girlhood upwards that it was a most sickening nuisance She bound it tightly as if to punish and be firm with the sickening nuisance that it was to her

Her name was Nona

Out of a hundred people who passed her by quite a considerable number would have denied that she was beautiful Her face was round and saucy rather than oval and classical Incontestable the striking attraction of her complexion and of her hair, but not beautiful—quite a number would have said and [illegible] say Oh no pretty perhaps, in a way, but that's all

But her face was much more than beautiful to Sabre

IV

Greetings had been exchanged his apologies for his blundering descent upon them laughed at Lord Tybar was saying Well it's a tiger of a place, this Garden Home of yours Sabre—'

It's not mine, said Sabre God forbid'

'Ah you've not got the same beautiful local patriotism that I have It's one of my most elegant qualities, my passionate devotion to my countryside

'You're a bloated aristocrat and a bloodsucker Nona told him in her clear fine voice And you're living on estates which your brutal ancestors ravaged from the people That's what you are Tony I showed it you in the Searchlight yesterday And I say don't use elegant that's mine

Oh by gad, yes so I am' said Lord Tybar Bloodsucker Good lord fancy being a bloodsucker'

He looked so genuinely rueful and abashed that Sabre laughed and then said to Nona, Why is elegant yours Lady Tybar?'

She made a little pouting motion at him with her lips Marko I wish to goodness you wouldn't call me Lady Tybar Dash it we've called one another Nona and Marko for about a thousand years long before [illegible] Lord Tybar What [illegible] matter what [illegible] anyway That's the way to [illegible] Sabre I'm [illegible] end of my [illegible] a peculiar [illegible] of the feudal system I can't [illegible]

About [illegible] Marko don't be a complete noodle than you already are

Ah you're better it now Lord Tybar murmured I'm a noodle too the Searchlight says

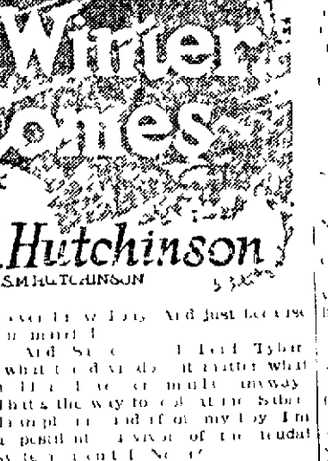
He [illegible] how give Sabre the impression of taking an even deeper enjoyment in the interval between his wife and Sabre than the enjoyment he clearly had in his own facetiousness He was slightly turned in his saddle so as to look directly at Nona and he listened and interposed and turned his eyes from her face to Sabre's and from Sabre's to hers with his handsome head slightly cocked to one side and with much gleaming in his eyes rather as if he had on some private mock

Fantastical notion' What mock could he have?

Well about my word elegant', Nona was going on and why it is mine I don't you see Sabre?

Sabre said he had Yes why yours?

Why Tony and I get fond of a word and then we have it for our



JONAH'S GOING TO TAKE ME INTO PARTNERSHIP JUST TOLD ME HE SAID

own which set us it is and use it for everything And elegant's mine just now I'm dreadfully fond of it It's so well elegant there you are you see

The mare steadied again She stretched out her neck towards Sabre and quivered her nostrils at him sensing him He put up a hand to stroke her beautiful muzzle and she threw up her head violently and swerved sharply around

The mare was wheedled round again to her former position, against her will but somehow as the natural result of her dancing Marvelous how he directed her caprices into his own intentions and against her own But Lord Tybar was now looking away behind him to where the adjoining meadow sloped far away and steeply to a copse In the hollow only the tops of the trees could be seen His eyes were screwed up in distant vision He said Dash it there's that old blighter Soopers He's been avoiding me Now I've got him Nona, you won't mind getting back alone?'

He twisted the mare in a wonderfully quick and dexterous movement Goodly Sir Le You don't mind Nona? And he flashed back a [illegible] He lifted the mare over the [illegible] with superbly easy motion [illegible] to wave his hand [illegible] in the meadow, [illegible] away image of [illegible] movement For [illegible]

[illegible] of the level valley [illegible] where only he could [illegible] the individual he might [illegible] at that distance, of calls Ark dimensions "How he could have recognized any one" said Nona [illegible] towards the valley I can't even see anyone He's got eyes like [illegible] hawks!"

Sabre said And rides like a— what do they call those things?—like a centaur

She turned her head towards him He does everything better than any one else she said That's Tony's characteristic Everything He's perfectly wonderful

These were enthusiastic words but she spoke them without enthusiasm she merely pronounced them 'Well, I'm off too she said 'And what about you Marko? You're going to work aren't you? I don't think you ought to be able to stop and gossip like this You're not getting an older are you' You used to be such a devoted hard worker My word" and she laughed as though at some amused memory of his devotion to work

He laughed, too They certainly had many recollections in common though not all laughable "I don't think I'm quite so—so earnest as I used to be" he smiled

Ah, but I like you earnest Marko"

There was the tiniest silence between them Yet it seemed to Sabre a very long silence

She was again the one to speak, and her tone was rather abrupt and high pitched as if she, too, were conscious of a long silence and broke it deliberately, as one breaks, with an effort, constraint

'And how's Mabel?'

'She's all right. She's ever so keen on this Garden Home business.'

'She would be." said Nona.

"And so am I'" said Sabre. Something in her tone made him say it defiantly

She laughed "I'm sure you are, Marko Well goodby,' and as Derry and Toms began to turn with his customary sedateness of motion she made the remark I'm so glad you don't wear trouser clips, Marko. I do loathe trouser clips"

He told her that he rode "one of those chainless bikes"

He said it rather mumblingly. Exactly in that tone she used to say things like, I do like you in that brown suit, Marko"

He resumed his ride A mile farther on he overtook, on a slight rise, an immense tree trunk slung between three pairs of wheels and dragged by two tremendous horses, harnessed tandemwise. As he passed them came the smell of warm horseflesh and his thought was "Pretty!"

He shot ahead and a line came into his mind

Was this the face that launched a thousand ships?"

Well he had had certain aspirations dreams, visions . . .

CHAPTER II

I

SABRE found but little business awaiting him when he got to his office He took out the manuscript of England" and turned over the pages He wondered what Nona would think of it. He would like to tell her about it

Twyning came in

Twyning was of middle height, very thin, black haired. His clean-shaven face was deeply furrowed in rigid looking furrows which looked as though shaving would be an intricate operation He held himself very stiffly and spoke stiffly as though the cords of his larynx were also rigidly inclined When not speaking he had the habit of breathing rather noisily through his nose as if he were doing deep breathing exercises. He was married and had a son of whom he was immensely proud, aged eighteen and doing well in a lawyer's office

He came in and closed the door. He had a sheet of paper in his hand. 'Jonah's going to take me into partnership Just told me."

LIVE STOCK NEWS

PUREBRED FEMALES GAINING

Striking Development in Federal-State Campaign for Live Stock Improvement.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Noteworthy progress during the last three months in the federal state campaign for live-stock improvement is reported by the bureau of animal industry, United States Department of Agriculture. The most striking development is the increasing tendency for purebred-sire users to acquire purebred female stock as well In the period of January 1 to March 31 of this year, 970 persons filed with the department signed enrollment blanks, indorsed by county agents, showing the use of purebred sires exclusively for all classes of live stock kept. This number is an increase of 254 over the previous three months and is nearly three times as many as for the same period in 1921.

Although the department has stressed chiefly the use of purebred sires records of the "Better Sires, Better Stock" campaign show a gradual rise in the proportion of purebred female animals, including cattle, horses, swine, sheep, goats and poultry. The proportion of purebreds to the total of female animals kept now exceeds 35 per cent A decline in the proportion of scrub females in herds headed by purbred sires accompanied the rise in purebreds.

The greatest activity during the quarter was in Ohio, where 532 persons were enrolled—more than half of the total. Nebraska came second with 135 enrollments, Washington third with 126 and Kentucky fourth with 121. A new state Michigan, entered the campaign actively Virginia has been the premier state since the beginning, the campaign from the start of persons participating Nebraska accumes first place in number of animals being bred to purebred sires. Ohio, which at the beginning of the year occupied third place, is now second and is fast approaching the leader. The returns from Green county, Ohio, show a unique result. There were 130 persons enrolled The live stock owned totaled 17,226 and among these there was but one scrub in sow There was an abundance, however of grades and crossbreeds, indicating widespread use of purebred sires in the county Among the ten counties in the United States highest in number of purebred-sire enrollments four are in Ohio. One of them, Hardin county, is second only to Pulaski county, Virginia.

The most active counties during the three months' period were Hancock and Green counties, Ohio, Kittitas county, Washington, Oldham county Kentucky, Dodge county, Nebraska and Hardin county, Ohio Comments received by the department from live-stock users show an increasing appreciation of the value of purebreds Numerous disposals of grade sires to be replaced by purebreds are reported.

GOOD TREATMENT PAYS BEST

Most Profitable Beef Animal Is One That Has Capacity to Eat and Produce Meat.

W. H Peters, professor of animal husbandry at University farm, emphasizes the fact that the most profitable beef animal is the one that has the capacity to eat and manufacture into beef the greatest amount of feed, and not the one that can subsist on the least and poorest ration.

"There are thousands of two and three-year-old beef cattle that can eat plenty of feed," he says, "but many of them are not able to manufacture much beef out of it, largely because their growth was stunted, their vitality weakened, and their beefy conformation lost through lack of proper and sufficient feed when they were calves.

"Present high prices for cattle and feed," says Mr Peters, "make it more clear than ever before that there are two ways of securing a profit from beef cattle, through the production of a good, well grown beefy type of animal, and by keeping down the cost of production to the minimum consistent with full development.

Sows Need Exercise.

In order that the sow may come to farrowing time in proper thrift, it is necessary that she have plenty of exercise.

Bituminous coal sold at an average price per short ton of $4.06 wholesale and $5.74 retail throughout the United States during the first six months of 1922 according to records of the Department of Commerce.

Average prices in 1914 were: Wholesale, $2.20; retail, $5.73.

Prices of the current year compare with the pre-war quotations as follows: Wholesale, 84 per cent increase, retail, 70 per cent increase.

Government officials figure that with these data combined that the cost of coal has not advanced to the small consumer or retail buyer in the same proportion as to the industrial purchaser or large user.

The coal strike, according to the data of the Commerce Department, did not cause the expected tremendous increase in price of bituminous coal. The average prices of this fuel (monthly basis) for the first half of 1922 are below the average of 1920

The heavy penalty for dishonesty in major league baseball has again been meted out and this time Pitcher Phil Douglas, the spitball hurler of the New York Giants is the victim. Yesterday, Douglas, after admitting, according to Judge Landis and officials of the New York club, that he had made an effort to obtain money by "throwing" baseball games, was indefinitely suspended from major league ball, which means the end of his career on major and minor league diamond, under the jurisdiction of organized baseball.

Douglass, according to Judge Landis, who was here yesterday with President John Heydler of the National League, had made a proposition to a player on one of the pennant contending clubs of the circuit to throw games in which he worked for a monetary remuneration and thus jeopardize New York's pennant chances and aid those of the three western contenders at the present

Neither Landis nor the officials of the New York club would divulge the name of the player to whom the proposition was made or the nature of it but it is thought that the offer was made in St. Louis.

Peat a Perfect Fuel.

Peat is used in Ireland to such an extent that few people in the country districts ever burn coal The odor of peat is healthful and pleasant, and it gives out neither fumes nor dirt

Average prices in 1920 were as follows: Whole sale, $5.85 per short ton or $4.70 more than in 1922; first half of 1922, it is emphasized, includes three months of the strike, which began in April

Officials of the Federal Fuel Control Organization refuse to predict on the possibility of coal prices going higher than at present Many farmers and big buyers of coal expect higher over the outlook.

Coal prices by years, as compiled monthly by the Department of Commerce, are as follows:

	Per Short Ton
Year	Wholesale.	Retail.
1914	$2.20	$5.73
1916	2.68	5.60
1918	3.88	7.80
1920	5.85	11.21
1922 (six months)	4.06	9.71

Good Prospects For A Return To Work In The Anthracite Coal Field

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug 17.—Negotiations which it is believed will result in the termination of the anthracite coal suspension will open here today. A conference between John L. New York, N. Y., Aug. 17.—The Sampio Correia, the mammoth seaplane, hopped off on its 8,500 mile flight to Rio de Janeiro at 7:20 this morning. Slowly rising from its hangar the giant plane started winging its way to Charleston, S. C., on the first lap of the long flight. Walter Hinton, pilot and commander, expected to reach Charleston in less than seven hours. Five hundred gallons of gasoline were poured into its tanks before the start.

BIG REWARDS FOR BRAIN

Announcement is made that since an accounting was filed by the executor Theodore Roosevelt's estate has been increased $50,000 by the payment of book royalties earned before his death but only recently paid It is probable the Roosevelt heirs will receive income for many years from this source Good books live and are in demand long after death claims their authors

Mark Twain's estate received one recent year from the subscription publisher of his works over $80,000 One book of adventure first published almost fifty years ago "goes big" among the boys of today and must be a source of large profit to the author's heirs, if they have managed to retain an interest in it.

Book copyrights are valuable property, provided the works have value It is just that the author have what they earn, and his heirs after him Put this is contrary to the theory of not a few of the most vociferous preachers on "human rights" These people would count the author out and give the rewards to the men who had a hand in manufacturing the material book These are the "workers," they think Production is the work of hand alone, according to them

Put no hand ever worked for more than fighting and scratching unless it were directed by a brain, unless some body thought out processes by which hands might transform raw materials into constructive products Authors of books make work for thousands in the various branches of the publishing business and they are entitled to the major profits arising from their work The demand for brain in creative activities

THE INARTICULATE MANY

The silent multitude are a part of us The needle in our telephone book's answer to directory they are enrolled as taxpayers on the assessment rolls and on the lists of customers prospects or "suckers" When estimates are made on the total voting strength of the nation or of national income, or the community's need for fuel the inarticulate many are always included

But however voluminously he may submit to having himself counted, classified and compared the inarticulate individual does not respond readily on matters which require initiative on his part When occasions present it, matters little on what subject—political religious or economic—the speaker can never expect to have returned to him more than three answers out of every one hundred he sends out It is safe to say that seventy per cent of us make up the great army of the inarticulate

To the orders out of our commanders this is a distressing situation It means that the city leaders have a vast multitude whose preferences and tastes we may never know anything It always leaves in doubt the very things about which we seek certainty Should the person who neglects to reply ever take it into their head to make known their opinions, this great reserve army of doubt might rush to some bitter decisions to which we need come, on the basis of the three per cent articulate

Put not only in the matter of our commanders is this sign of inarticulate reserve in which to our endeavor for success The thing we contemplate may be very desirable and right but they will never act in the highest results unless the regard each has got to do their best For the success of the great forces in civilization demand, to produce only to demand which it can not be exercised Through out all the ages it is the part of the few to which public leaders have had to address themselves

Indeed, looked at from the point of view our whole process of civilization has been little more than the search for the most effective method of giving the inarticulate member of society a voice Democracies are to succeed they must find ways and means by which the mass of inarticulate may be decoodized and become a part of the all-directing and active forty per cent who have what they want and take advantage of every opportunity to move them went Brown

Gladys Robinson of Toronto, Canada is the international speed skating champion In the summer she rides a bike to keep in trim for the winter sport.

THE GENUINE OPTIMIST

One of the encouraging evidences of the sanity of the public mind is the growing influence with the better element of the genuine optimist Sometimes he is regarded by the cynic as the simpleton of life Neither is a thoughtless soul or without reason or condition without thought of the future Public or private the optimist finds difficulties in his way, but he is willing to meet them and overcome them

Anticipant to a reasonable degree optimism must be based on a knowledge of the situation in hand, clearly defined, then projected confidently for the chance of achievement and personal experience will But beyond the chance of achievement lies the reasonable concept of what may or ought to be done, not yet fulfilled, but eternally to be

Into every optimist goes expressive faith in the ultimate success directed by the sense of optimist He has his share of knowledge of and knows the practical to modern affairs in order to contend for consistent by no means all of which come to him who waits but he needs to be there to supplement, but it comes to help to endeavor to those who

The practical settlement of Cleveland opens the way for the end of the coal strike What has been gained and lost in the twenty-week struggle?

The adjustment is on the old scale The original controversy remains where it was The men have lost millions in wages The country has lost millions in the jump back to war prices Moreover, the people slowly adjusting itself to normal conditions, finds itself facing higher fuel cost

There is but one redeeming feature the provision for a thorough investigation of the whole mining situation by a commission to be appointed by the President to report by January 1923

It is surely time some means was found, in industries of vital public service, where the inability of those concerned to keep it running should be compensated by a superior authority that could protect the public —Pittsburgh Dispatch

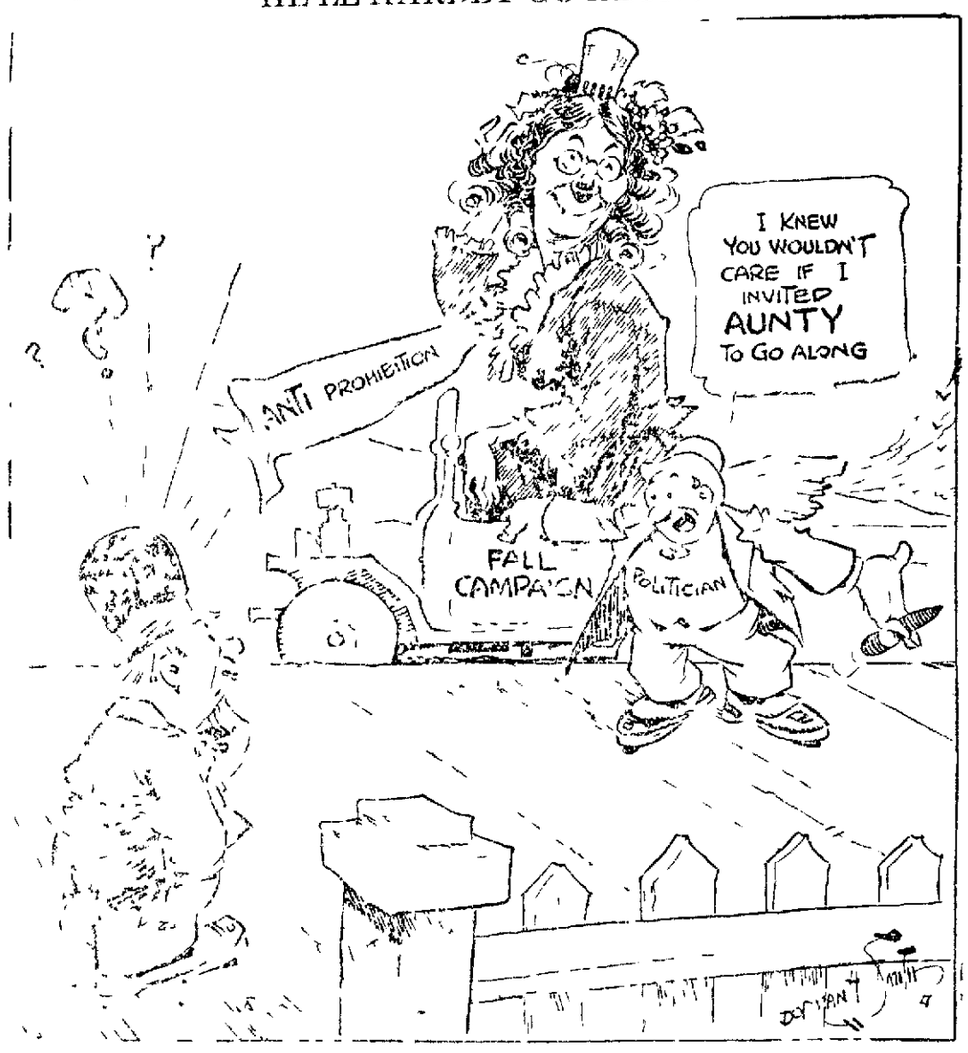
HE'LL HARDLY GO ALONG!



The Mount Union (Pa) "Times" publishes a letter signed "Farmer's daughter" complaining of the way which she says city people impose on their country relatives It is not believed that most country people feel the way about visits from their city relatives and friends the writer of the letter does They are more glorious, less clish At any rate there is considerable truth in her remarks and a good purpose will be served by their publication if they lead urban folks to be more considerate of their rural relatives when visiting them

Farmer Daughter says

Why don't city folks who boast to us how they are making so much money go to a country hotel and pay their board instead of imposing on their country friends? Resumption Is News Of Day

The suspension of the cable service was looked upon by officials in New York as of a temporary nature. It was not believed here that the cables were cut or that the stations were damaged in any way.

By the seizure, exchange of cable service between Ireland, Great Britain, France, Germany and Northern Europe over the lines of the Commercial Cable Company was impossible.

The Pennsylvania cables of the Western Union Company are caring for the business of the Commercial Cable company, officials of the Western Union reported to New York Tuesday. Radio [illegible] to the west, and Canadian [illegible] were handled by the Radio Corporation of America, while the Direct Cable company reported its service under normal conditions.

The Irish interests took over the Western Union cable station at Valentia on the Kerry Coast and the Commercial company's station at Waterville, southwestern Ireland. The officials of both companies explained the matter by saying that the irregulars "are not permitting the operators to work."

Ordinarily thirteen cables handle the commercial and news messages between the United States and Great Britain. Ten of these were not operating the day of the seizure. The Commercial Cable Company's means of communication were entirely shut off and the three lines operating were those of the Western Union.

Here's Perseverence

A portion of the United Press reports Tuesday were relayed to New York from England by the way of Buenos Aires.

Relaying press stories by way of three countries brings to mind the situation in this country a few years ago when Boston was shut off from all means of communication with New York. During a severe storm telegraph and telephone wires in New England were put out of commission and New York was shut off from communication with Boston. Stories were sent by cable to London and relayed to Boston and through London Boston got in touch with New York.

Attar of Roses.

Attar of roses, which is an oil, is obtained from three species of wild roses: Rosa centifolia, R. moschata, and R. damascena. The rose gardens at Ghazipur, India, have long been famous for their output of oil of roses. All these roses thrive with little care in California.

SECOND WARD VIES

A. G. Bartholomew has completed the addition to his home on South Fourth street. He is another of the newly remodeled residences of Clearfield.

F. S. Pifland is completing the foundation for his new home to be erected at the corner of East Locust and Walnut streets.

Port Gurley has also completed a two-story addition to his frame dwelling on South Fourth street.

James Hudson added a two story frame addition to his brick dwelling at the upper end of Ogden Avenue.

Ira Hess has also finished a two story frame addition to his home on South Fourth street.

The Welch'l sisters have improved and enlarged their home on Spring street, this improvement adding considerably to the dimensions of the house.

Charles Lloyd raised his two story frame dwelling on Spruce street, added a new wing and placed a substantial brick wall under same.

John W. Reed has added a handsome and commodious brick portico to his South Front street home.

The A. W. Leitzinger Company store on Market street, is now putting in its new front to complete the addition and enlargement of that big establishment. The Dufton Hardware Company will start work in a few days on the erection of a four story brick building to take care of their rapidly increasing business, while their neighbors Robinson & Company, will go along with the improvement and be enlarging their present store building with a three story brick. But like the big improvement of the Clearfield Machine Shops these business buildings are all worthy of more attention that can be given them at this time and we will deal with each separately in a later article.

The above hasty resume of this week's building activities in the Second Ward which is being matched in every other section of the town is conclusive evidence of the substantial growth of old Clearfield and a lasting present proof of the claim that Clearfield is the best and be best town and most progressive community in the entire West Branch Valley.

Home-Made Floor Oil.

One part boiled linseed oil thinned with three parts turpentine makes a good floor oil, says the Scientific American; while one part light, highly refined engine oil combined with four parts kerosene gives results similar to coating of shellac.

Fish as Personal Decoration.

The natives of Nauru in the Pacific make use of fish for personal adornment on many occasions, especially for the "fish dance." The fish are very brilliant and are tied in great numbers about the person of the dancers. Forty or 50 fishes are sometimes strung about each native. After use in this manner they are eaten.

His Dearest Wish.

The neighbor children were all invited to Roy's birthday party. As each child lit a candle on the cake he was to wish for some thing. Charley said: "I wish my mother would forget to tell me I doesn't have two pieces of cake when I come to your party again."

Cupid Joins East and West

Miss Nora Riley, of Bridgeport, Conn., and six car loads of her relatives and Henry Carroll, of Los Angeles and six car loads of his relatives motored across the continent till they met at St. Paul. They were married in a tent city they pitched at Cherokee Heights. Bride and groom are in the center of the group.

YOUNG WOMAN!

WOULD YOU MARRY A MAN WHO HAS NO BANK ACCOUNT?

A bank account is a positive indication of character. The man who has not learned to save money is not yet ready to undertake family responsibilities. If he lacks the will power to deny himself little luxuries, will he have the strength of purpose to be a good provider and an unselfish and ammbitious husband.

This bank helps young men to save their money and in addition thereto pays interest on all money deposited in our Savings Department.

Unconscious, and alone but for his guardian dog, Lucy found The Man—the man who had captured the wild horse that had eluded all others.

And then, one of her father's horses stolen, another poisoned, the girl carried the family colors to victory—for "Wildfire," creature of the forests and the plains, gave his all—for he knew what victory meant in love and happiness.

It's the most thrilling of motion pictures, with action only pausing for laughs and the heart grip of a wonderful love story that every woman would like for her very own.

As big as the great outdoors, as clean as nature itself, as pulsing with life as creatures of the wild—and with such a background an amazing love story.

It's the sort of a love story every woman would like for her own—that will give every man a thrill.

An amazing victory "Wildfire" wins, and Romance rides upon his back.

Even horses and dogs sensed their amazing romance—and made their happiness secure.

Its' a Zane Grey story—that means action—a clean atmosphere—a moving love story. And its' all that a motion picture should be.

"Wildfire" wins! And it was not alone the victory of the race, but of love and justice.

Laughs follow thrills, but the grip of the heart holds until Romance has ridden its way to complete victory.

Your heart will beat to the clattering of racing horses' feet pulse with the deeds of the great outdoors, grip with the suspense of an amazing love story.

The best of fiction become real—vivid, sturdy, upstanding men—lovable understanding women—deeds that stir your blood, a romance that warms your heart.

One of her fathers' horses stolen, another "doped," yet out of the wilds she brought a horse and won a victory—won for the family honor—and for the heart of her's, too.

Alone in the wilderness she found him, and gave him life and hope. From the wilds, too, he saved her and brought her back to the world and the fullness of love.

A story of an unbeatable horse—"Wildfire"—and of romance that you will envy.

BARNETT—GLENN

At the Simpson Methodist church at 10:30 Wednesday morning Rev. O. B. Poulson, conference evangelist of the Methodist church, united in marriage Miss Cora M. Glenn of this city and Mr. Benjamin D. Barnett of Olanta, Clearfield county. The ring ceremony was used. The couple were attended by Mr. Ralph Barnett a brother of the bridegroom, and Miss Vena Glenn, a cousin of the bride. The bride resides at 2024 Fourth avenue and for some time has been employed as a forelady at the Altoona silk mill. The bridegroom is supervising principal of the Woodward township schools in Clearfield county. The young people departed on Lehigh express to spend a honeymoon in Buffalo and Niagara Falls.—Altoona Mirror.

Tractor Display To Show Complete Line

The Pittsburg Auto Equipment Co. will stage an exhibit of the latest known devices in automobile and tractor repair work at the Fordson tractor show to be held in Pittsburg during the week of Sept. 11 to 16.

A display of this equipment, made by the Dearborn Equipment Co. of Kalamazoo, Mich., will be a feature of the show. Recently, at Philadelphia, the Ford motor branch of that city staged a demonstration of this line with surprising results, hardly a tool being left on the floor at the completion of the show.

Baltimore, Washington and Richmond will stage tractor shows in the late summer and fall and it will be interesting and instructive for everyone that can possibly go to attend the local exhibit.

Burning-in and running-in-machines, motor stands, connecting rod and piston alignment devices, lifting hooks, tow bars, cranking devices, test fixtures, wheel clamps and test plugs will be some of the items shown.

The demand for up-to-date tools for efficient car repair is remarkable and dealers all over the country are apparently awake to the thousands of repair possibilities being manufactured daily by our big car manufacturers.

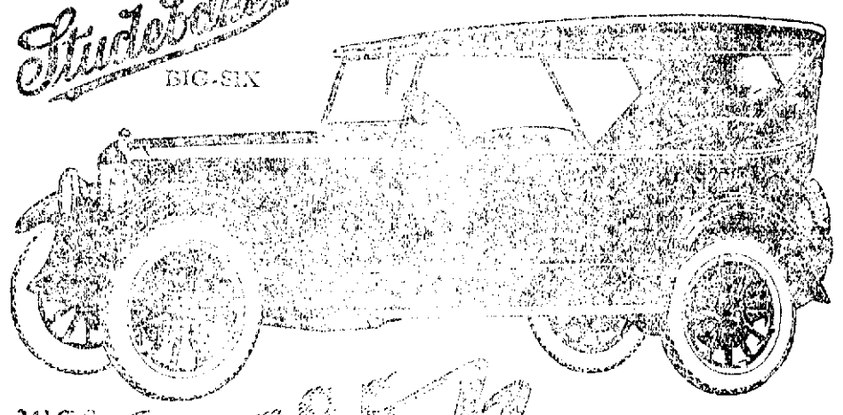
FROM GIRLHOOD TO WOMANHOOD

Woman Relied Upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Emporia, Kansas.—"I began using Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines years ago when I was a girl. For several years I had severe pains at menstrual periods, making me very weak and interfering with my regular duties. I tried several remedies without obtaining relief. I was induced to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound by friends and it restored me to normal health. I often have occasion and do recommend your Vegetable Compound to my friends who have troubles similar to my own. You may use these facts as a testimonial."—EVA ALDRICH, 218 Union St., Emporia, Kansas.

There are many women who first used our Vegetable Compound during their girlhood days. They found it a valuable help during trying periods. In later years they use it whenever they feel those annoying symptoms which women often have.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a woman's medicine. It is prepared carefully from the best quality of medicinal plants, whose properties are especially adapted to correct the troubles women have.



was $1985 Now $1650

YOU can buy a Studebaker Big-Six Touring Car today for $1650. This is the lowest price ever made for a car of Studebaker high quality.

Always a matchless value, the Big-Six stands out today strikingly than ever in the field of fine cars.

The seven-passenger Big-Six is not a "volume" motor car, but you get it at a volume price because the Studebaker organization produces and sells three great models with only one overhead.

Look over the field. Check the many points that will appeal to you in the selection of a car. See the Big-Six. Ride in it—you'll take you for a demonstration any time you say. Try the wheel yourself. Then compare it with any other car, even at two or three times its price, and you will appreciate how much more you get for your money in a Big-Six than you can find anywhere else.

The price of the Big Six was reduced at a time when Studebaker had unfilled orders on hand for more than 15,000 cars. The first seven months of this year were the best in Studebaker's 70 years' history. Capacity production lowers costs and Studebaker believes that its manufacturing savings should be shared with the customer. Hence the new low price of the Big-Six.

who will ask other little girls to call to see the Little Miss Gage Line of Hats for Fall.

Little Miss Gage wants to meet the little girls of Clearfield to tell them something about the line of hats for girls from four to fourteen which have been named after her.

Doubtless your mother or big sister has worn a Gage Hat, and if you will ask her she will tell you about its good qualities. If neither of them has as yet, you may be the one to set them a good example.

Any way or all, come over to Leonardson's store and look to see the Little Miss Gage Line. You will find hats of duvetyn, plush and velvet, some for dress up and some for play. All of them have an adjustable lining, so that they may be made to stay on your head, no matter how hard the wind blows or how fast you run.

THE CONTEST

Some little girl in Clearfield (perhaps it is you) is going to have a chance to win a Little Miss Gage Hat. Come to our store and ask for coloring the pictures in a very pretty folder we have called "Little Miss Gage in Fairyland."
